Recycled Materials Association

Last updated: November 19, 2026

Privacy Policy

The Recycled Materials Association (“ReMA”) respects your privacy and is committed to protecting it through our compliance with this privacy policy (“Policy”).

This Policy outlines the terms and conditions applicable to your access and use of our Websites (defined below) and describes the types of information ReMA may collect from you or that you may provide when you visit recycledmaterials.org or remashow.org (our “Websites”) and our practices for collecting, using, maintaining, protecting, and disclosing that information.

This Policy applies to the following sites: recycledmaterials.org and remashow.org (and each sub-domain associated with this URL) and other websites owned and/or operated by or for ReMA and its affiliated entities, including any future mobile sites (collectively, the "Sites").

ReMA may revise this Policy, in its sole discretion, at any time without notification to you. ReMA is only obligated to post the amended Policy on this Website. For your convenience, the date of last revision has been included at the top this page.

Collection, Use, and Storage of Personal Data

ReMA may request and collect your personal data at certain points throughout the Website or on one of our affiliated sites. Personal data is information linked to or reasonably linkable to an identified or identifiable individual. Depending on the information and/or services that may interest you, you may be asked to provide information such as, your name, address, email address, phone number, and/or other similar identifiable information. Once you voluntarily provide your personal data, you are no longer anonymous to ReMA or its affiliated entities. We may use this information to respond to an email or other inquiry, to help improve the Website and our services, to better customize your experience on this Website, or to send updates or notices to you about ReMA. However, we will not share your personal data with anyone outside ReMA, its affiliated entities, and service providers (except as otherwise provided under the section below entitled, Required Disclosures).

In addition, ReMA does track and recognize each visitor’s domain and IP address and how long the domain/IP address is logged on a given webpage and the number and type of pages visited. This information may include IP addresses, cookie identifiers and information about visitors’ use of our websites and is used by ReMA solely to more efficiently operate and administer its websites, including recycledmaterials.org and remashow.org.

Cookies

ReMA uses cookies. A “cookie” is a piece of data stored on the user's hard drive containing information about the user. ReMA uses cookies to support website functionality, measure website traffic, and remember visitors’ privacy choices where those controls are available. The cookie technology used may differ between our websites. Information collected through these cookie technologies may include IP addresses, identifiers and website activity.

Personal Data Protection

ReMA has established, implemented, and maintains reasonable administrative, technical, and physical data security practices to protect the confidentiality, integrity, and accessibility of personal data at a level appropriate to the personal data at issue. The data is stored within our database, which requires a login to access. The data is encrypted.

Only authorized ReMA employees or agents are permitted to have access to personal data about website visitors, and that access is limited to what is reasonably needed to perform an employee’s responsibilities, such as providing updates, notices, or customer service.

Your password (if issued) is a component of our security system. As such, you also have a responsibility to protect it. Do not share your password with any third parties.

Occasionally, ReMA may employ independent contractors, vendors, hosting services, analytic & advertising providers, and suppliers (“Outside Contractors”) to provide specific services and products related to the Website or to the services provided on the Website, including but not limited to, performing general statistical analysis, maintaining an email suppression list as may be required by state and/or federal law, fraud screening, testing and implementation of special services to users, and developing applications for the Website and the services provided on the Website. Although unlikely, these Outside Contractors may have limited access to information collected on the Website, including name, title, company, e-mail, address, phone number, IP address, cookie identifiers, and website activity history in the course of providing such products or services. These Outside Contractors are not permitted to disclose any information that could identify you without your express written consent.

Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet is not completely secure. Although we do our best to protect your personal data, we cannot guarantee the security of your personal data transmitted to our Website. In the unlikely event there is a data breach, we will notify you in writing and take commercially reasonable steps to cure the breach.

Children’s Privacy

ReMA is unable to fully prevent children under the age of thirteen (13) from visiting this Website; however, no part of our Website is directed at or intended for persons under the age of thirteen (13). If you are under the age of thirteen (13), please do not access the Website at any time or in any manner. In order to comply with the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act, ReMA will not knowingly collect personal data from children under the age of thirteen (13). If, at any time, ReMA learns or gains actual knowledge that personal data has been collected from person(s) under the age of thirteen (13) without verified parental consent, ReMA will take the appropriate steps to delete such information.

User Rights

Users of this Website have the rights to: (i) confirm with ReMA whether personal data is being collected or processed; (ii) access any of your collected personal data; (iii) correct inaccuracies or make changes to your personal data; (iv) request that ReMA delete your personal data and de-activate your ReMA membership or login account; (v) opt out of the collection and processing of your personal data; and (vi) any other rights afforded to you under applicable law. Please note that the exact scope of these rights may vary by state.

You may exercise these rights by contacting ReMA at privacy@recycledmaterials.org. ReMA will authenticate any requests and will respond in writing. Further, you may have the right to appeal any refusal to take action. You may also update your information within your membership profile.

In the case of processing personal data of a known child, the parent or legal guardian may exercise such user rights on the child’s behalf.

Required Disclosures

ReMA reserves the right to disclose your information, without notice, if required to do so by law or in the good faith belief that such disclosure is necessary to: (i) conform to the edicts of law or comply with legal process served on ReMA or any of its affiliated entities; (ii) protect and defend the rights of ReMA or any of its affiliated entities, and/or (iii) act under exigent circumstances to protect the personal safety of users of the Website or the general public.

Third-Party Links

ReMA occasionally provides links to third party groups or websites to help promote either its individual members or information for the benefit of ReMA's members and/or the general public. This Policy applies solely to information collected in connection with this Website. ReMA is not responsible for the privacy practices of other websites that may be linked to this Website. ReMA encourages users to read the privacy policies of such websites and/or third-party advertisers listed on such websites when connected to such sites via this Website. Furthermore, ReMA encourages you to ask questions or seek outside guidance before disclosing any personal data to others.